Health reasons prompted 'Voice' star's abrupt exit

Update. Philly-based performer is in Pittsburgh, his lawyer said.

A lawyer representing the Philly-based contestant from "The Voice," who disappeared mysteriously from the show this week, says his client is recording music with a friend in Pittsburgh, and wants to return to the show.

Attorney Evan Shingles says Anthony Riley left the show for "health reasons."

"He's a street performer," Shingles said. "He's onstage and he's getting all this attention all of the sudden. I think that presented some issues for him."

But Shingles cautioned that he does not know everything about why his client left.

"I'm still trying to get a handle on what's going on."

Shingles, who is primarily a civil rights attorney, represented Riley after he was arrested for singing Sam Cooke's "A Change is Going to Come" in Rittenhouse Square. Riley later sued the city, and the case was settled out of court.

Riley scored the fastest four chair turnarounds during the blind audition rounds of in the show's history, performing the James Brown classic "I Got You (I Feel Good).

Two rumors surrounded Riley's departure from "The Voice." The first was that Riley left over tweets of support for imprisoned cop killer and political activist Mumia Abu Jamal. The second is that Riley did not want to be paired with fellow-contestant Mia Z.

Anthony Riley / YOUTUBE/NBC

Quoted

"When I say somebody hacked his accounts, I know that sounds ridiculous, it sounds like an excuse. He's apolitical. The fact that he was singing a Sam Cooke song with political ramifications is a happy accident that I could use in court." Shingles

Shingles said both rumors are false.

Riley's twitter account, Shingles said, was hacked by a "disgruntled" former manager.

As to rumors that Riley wouldn't partner with Mia Z, Shingles said "He wants to compete."

Shingles said he's heard some of the music Riley is recording. "He's recording with an eye toward releasing some music."

The Hammer of Glory is hitting the road

Jim Kirk, co-owner of Kite & Key, shows off the HOG. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

They were riding in a fighter jet float shooting fireworks — transporting the Hammer of Glory or HOG, the official symbol of Philly Beer Week, as part of the 2013 Beer Week HOG relay when the police pulled them over.

"He wanted to know, 'What the hell were we doing?'" recalled Jim Kirk, co-owner of Kite & Key at 19th and Callowhill streets and a board member of Philly Beer Week.

The tradition continues Thursday night, when Kite & Key will be one of four bars in Fairmount that get their own mini-HOG relay, dubbed #HOGTour. It's all part of a series of pub crawls planned around the city the last Thursday of each month leading up to Beer Week, a local craft beer festival that kicks off May 29.

Kirk expects a high turnout at the tour due to the presence of the HOG.

"The power it has with random people — it just mesmerizes them," he said. "This symbol is one-size-fits-all. It's going to be out and about."

The HOG will start out Thursday at 6 p.m. at the London Grill, before moving on the nearby Urban Saloon and Belgian Cafe.

Quoted

"I don't think you can define it in a single moment." Kirk

"Philly Beer Week was always designed to be about local beer culture and highlight what a great place Philly is for local brewers and drinkers," said Kristine Kennedy, executive director of Philly Beer Week. "It's about being creative and finding really unique ways to participate."

Mayor moves to adopt DOJ report

Mayor Michael Nutter has formed a new task force to ensure the police department follows recommendations in the U.S. Justice Department's report on the Philadelphia Police Department's use of force.

The federal report found that officers need more training in nonviolent ways to respond to and resolve conflicts, and says that the department has seriously eroded the trust of the community.

Police Commissioner Charles Ramsey requested the report after a spike in officer involved shootings.

Cop-killers may face execution

Capital punishment.
Prosecutors are weighing whether they want to pursue the death penalty.

Prosecutors have not ruled out the death penalty for two men accused of killing Philadelphia Police Officer Robert Wilson III during a shootout at a North Philadelphia video game store.

A preliminary hearing for Ramone Williams, 24, and Carlton Hipps, 29, was rescheduled for May at the request of prosecutors, who say they are continuing a background investigation that could play a role into whether the office seeks the death penalty.

"That's not a decision that's made lightly," said Assistant District Attorney Brian Zarallo. "Obviously, there are a lot of considerations, a great many of those factors are things we're analyzing and continuing to look into.

Wilson was on duty and in uniform, buying a video game for his son in the GameStop at 22nd and Lehigh Avenue when two men burst in and announced a robbery. Police say more than 50 shots were fired during a shootout, during which Wilson was shot multiple times, including in the head.

Wilson's partner, Damien Stevenson, who was outside the store when the shooting began shot Hipps in the leg as he exited the store. Williams ran back into the store, where customers identified him to police.

Prosecutors say they plan to present "overwhelming" evidence at the preliminary hearing, that both men shot Wilson.

That evidence includes surveillance video from inside the store and body camera video from a responding officer.

Obituary. Novella Williams, civil rights dynamo, dead at 87

Novella Williams, a longtime Philadelphia civic leader, civil rights activist and mentor, has died, it was reported on Wednesday. She was 87.

Williams was the founder of Citizens for Progress and many other community groups, and worked for years both on the national and local stages fighting the good fight for diversity, human rights and equal opportunity.

Her motto was: "Power comes from knowledge."

Of her West Philly-based group, she said, "We care and we worked to save lives, through education, empowerment, good affordable health care, housing and equal opportunity employment."

She was at the historic 1963 March on Washington and was back there for the 50th anniversary in 2013.

Mayor Michael Nutter, whom Williams locked horns with over education matters, released a statement, calling her "a strong woman and a great leader in our city. She was opinionated, focused and forceful. If she believed in a cause, she'd knock down a wall to make something happen.

"She taught so many of us — young people at the time, getting into community leadership and politics — so many lessons about engagement and activism. Novella Williams did her thing. She did it her way, and she made her presence felt all across Philadelphia. She will be greatly missed."

Her family said she died of heart failure last Friday.

Williams was born in North Carolina and moved with her late husband, Thomas Williams, to Philly in 1948.

Five things you need to know

1 Facing resistance, U.S. pushes to meet deadline for Iran deal

The United States will struggle to secure a framework nuclear deal between Iran and major powers by a March 31 deadline, due to resistance from Tehran and skepticism among other countries, officials said.

With the two sides resuming negotiations this week, Washington is under pressure as it pushes for the political framework agreement that would lay the foundations for a full deal with Iran by June 30.

The aim is to curb Iran's sensitive nuclear activities for at least a decade in exchange for an end to sanctions that have crippled its economy. However, Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei has rejected the idea of two accords, fearing a framework agreement would remove Tehran's ability to negotiate on details, Iranian officials say.

France, which blocked an interim deal in 2013 until changes were made, has doubts about trying to secure the framework agreement at the talks in Lausanne, Switzerland. It has suggested focusing on the June deadline. REUTERS

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it was offering up to $25,000 for information about the recent theft of an estimated $4.9 million in gold from an armored truck parked along a highway in North Carolina.

Authorities are searching for robbers who they said attacked an armored truck stopped on the side of a remote stretch of Interstate 95 near Wilson on March 1 and took off with the valuable gold bars.

The truck was traveling from Miami to Massachusetts when it was robbed. REUTERS

5 Kraft to combine with Heinz

Ketchup maker H.J. Heinz Co, owned by 3G Capital and Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway Inc, is acquiring a majority stake in Kraft Foods Group Inc to create the third-largest North American food company, executives said on Wednesday.

The deal would provide Heinz with access to Kraft brands. Heinz's international presence provides an opportunity to sell those brands overseas.

Kraft stockholders would get one share in the combined company, to be called the Kraft Heinz Co. REUTERS

Investigators hope cockpit tape will unravel crash riddle

No survivors. Three Americans are among the dead in Germanwings crash.

Investigators have retrieved cockpit voice recordings from one of the black boxes of the German Airbus plane that smashed into the Alps, killing everyone onboard, and they expect a preliminary read-out of their content in days, an official said on Wednesday.

The development came as French President Francois Hollande, Germany's Angela Merkel and Spain's Mariano Rajoy traveled to the crash site in a remote French Alpine region to pay tribute to the 150 victims, mostly Germany and Spanish.

Germanwings said 72 Germans were killed in Tuesday's crash. Spanish officials said 51 Spaniards were among the victims.

As well as Germans and Spaniards, victims included three Americans, a Moroccan and citizens of Britain, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Colombia, Denmark, Israel, Japan, Mexico, Iran and the Netherlands, officials said. However, DNA checks to identify them could take weeks, the French government said.

Lufthansa CEO Carsten Spohr described the crash as incomprehensible and said Lufthansa has never lost a plane during the cruise stage of flight. REUTERS

Former war prisoner Sgt. Bergdahl faces desertion charges

Charges. Desertion carries a max prison term of five years, misbehavior count carries a max term of life in prison.

U.S. Army Sergeant Bowe Bergdahl, a former Taliban prisoner in Afghanistan, was formally charged on Wednesday with desertion and misbehavior before the enemy, and faces a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted of the most serious count, the Army said.

Bergdahl's attorney, Eugene Fidell of Yale Law School, said the Army had scheduled an Article 32 investigation, similar to a ground jury proceeding in civilian law, to determine whether there was sufficient evidence to proceed with a court-martial on the charges. The initial hearing is set for April 22, he said.

Bergdahl, 28, was released from Taliban custody last summer in a controversial prisoner swap that saw five Taliban prisoners held at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba transferred to Qatar, where they were required to remain for a year.

CHAPTER FIVE
SOPHIE

I can feel the twenty dollars in my pocket as we walk around the festival. It's poking me, but that's OK. That means I haven't lost it yet. To get the twenty, I had to promise Josh that I wouldn't be sad about him leaving for college. I'm usually pretty good at keeping promises, but not this one. I'm about to tell Josh that I just want to go home when I see a booth filled with animals. The lady at the booth says they're crocheted. I don't know about that, but I do know that I want the green dog. I hand the lady the twenty and she asks what we're buying it for. I tell her Josh is going to college and leaving me. She smiles and grabs an orange pig off the shelf. She says the pig is on the house. That way, there's one for each of us.

High Court revives pregnant worker's case against UPS

Fairness. The case focused on whether employers must provide accommodations for pregnant workers.

Peggy Young, the plaintiff in Young vs UPS. / GETTY IMAGES

The U.S. Supreme Court on Wednesday sided with a former driver for UPS Inc by throwing out a lower court ruling blocking her lawsuit accusing the package delivery company of discrimination for refusing to lighten her work duties while she was pregnant.

The justices gave Young another chance to litigate whether UPS should have granted her request for temporary changes in work duties — she asked not to lift heavier packages — after she became pregnant in 2006.

Writing on behalf of the majority, liberal Justice Stephen Breyer said the lower court is required to determine if the employer had "legitimate, nondiscriminatory, nonpretextual justification" for treating employees differently.

A federal district court judge and an appeals court had ruled in favor of UPS, which was backed by business groups in the case.

Vote

6-3

On a 6-3 vote, the justices revived Peggy Young's discrimination claim against UPS and sent the case back to a lower court.

Breyer said the lower court failed to consider the effects of UPS policies that covered non-pregnant workers who might have disabilities, injuries or otherwise might need accommodations, and asked, "Why, when the employer accommodated so many, could it not accommodate pregnant women as well?"

Breyer said there is a "genuine dispute as to whether UPS provided more favorable treatment to at least some employees whose situation cannot reasonably be distinguished from Young's."

The two sides in the case disagreed over whether UPS agreed to accommodate non-pregnant workers requesting light-duty assignments.

The case concerned whether the package delivery company violated a federal law, the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, by denying Young's request. Young, who worked at a Maryland facility, had acted on a midwife's advice that she not be required to lift packages weighing more than 20 pounds.

Zayn Malik officially the Ginger Spice of One Direction

Bye, Zayn. / ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Looks like the "stress" was more severe than we thought. Five years after being cobbled together by Simon Cowell on "The X Factor," One Direction has gone from a five-some to a foursome as Zayn Malik announced that he is resigning from the hugely successful pop group. Niall Horan, Harry Styles, Liam Payne and Louis Tomlinson, currently on a world tour, will continue as a quartet. "My life with One Direction has been more than I could ever have imagined," Malik says in a statement. "But after five years, I feel like it is now the right time for me to leave the band. I'd like to apologize to the fans if I've let anyone down, but I have to do what feels right." Man, did I have this one wrong. In my One Direction/Spice Girls correlation chart, I totally thought Malik was the Scary Spice, not the Ginger Spice. But there you go.

Vin Diesel has high hopes for 'Furious 7'

With the seventh film in the"Fast and Furious" franchise set to come out next month and expected to rack up the kind of titanic global success the last few have seen, it's understandable that series star Vin Diesel might be feeling a bit bullish on its prospects. Maybe too bullish, actually. "Universal is going to have the biggest movie in history with this movie. It will probably win best picture at the Oscars, unless the Oscars don't want to be relevant ever," Diesel tells Variety. "This will win best picture. There is nothing that will ever come close to the power of this thing." Mr. Diesel, I'm glad you're so pleased with your latest work, but let's temper this excitement a bit, yeah?

This is what confidence looks like.

'Game of Thrones' star Lena Headey gets poetic about divorce

Lena Headey, who plays reigning "Game of Thrones" ice queen Cersei Lannister, is a lot more emotionally open in real life, especially when it comes to discussing her 2012 divorce from Peter Loughran. "It's tough," she tells More magazine. "There's a lot of hurt and sadness and disappointment. Grief. Massive grief. It's a mourning process, and yet nobody's died." That's some impressive eloquence, right there.

Scientifically accurate 'Pinky and the Brain'

ANIMATION DOMINATION HIGH-DEF, YOUTUBE

Fox's Animation Domination High-Def is here to ruin your childhood with a scientifically accurate look at "Pinky and the Brain." And why did we ever think a show about a megalomaniacal lab rat was for kids? "Stephen Spielberg made what might be the darkest children's show," the video intones. Of course, you have to do a little extra digging to figure out what cosmetics companies that still use animal testing are bleeped out, but knowledge is power, right? As the song goes, "They'll mostly, they'll mostly be in pain, pain, pain, pain."

IN PRAISE OF FAN FICTION

This week, WonderCon canceled a panel about fan fiction after complaints on Twitter. If you're not familiar with the term, fan fiction is a story about an established character or world written by someone other than the original author. Well, maybe you heard about it when "Fifty Shades of Grey" came out. That was based on "Twilight" fan fiction. Please don't judge the genre based on that, OK?

The panel, hosted by Chris Gore, which would have read aloud "the weirdest and wildest fan fiction found on the Internet," was canceled after a barrage of angry tweets, thinking he was mocking the subject and the authors. For the record, the readings were to be done with the consent of the authors.

I bring this up because fan fiction often gets a bad rap. However, if you're like me, you don't really want your favorite stories to end after the book does. Heck, I vowed to read only dead authors as a kid because I had to wait so long to get new stories before the Internet appeared! For people who, say, love "Harry Potter," reading about the further adventures of Hermione and Ron is an absolute blast!

Yes, some readers have explored the relationship between Ron Weasley and Harry Potter. / WARNER BROS.

In a way, the next "Star Wars" films are fan fiction. FOX, /LUCASFILM

Quoted

"I'm not saying it's all well-written. I'm not saying some of it isn't going to make the back of your eyeballs itch; but do yourself a favor and check some of it out. You may be surprised."

Yes, there is also a class of fan fiction that might have, say, Harry and Ron in a kind of relationship not implied by the books. So what? Don't tell me you never wondered about that. Honestly, a lot of the bad rap comes from this sort of story. I was once sent something written about characters from "My Little Pony" that I'm pretty sure isn't anatomically possible, and I'm probably going to need years of therapy to remove it from my brain. That said, there is nothing wrong with self-expression.

Gore mentioned something that got me thinking about the subject last night. He said that, if you think about it, "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" is a sort of fan fiction. It's a love letter from fans who grew up with the franchise.

I'm not saying it's all well-written. I'm not saying some of it isn't going to make the back of your eyeballs itch; but do yourself a favor and check some of it out. You may be surprised.

(But, remember, he wasn't always an old ugly man - once, he was just ugly)

Will Ferrell embarrasses Kevin Hart with his wack clothes in "Get Hard." / WARNER BROS. PICTURES

1 'Get Hard'
While his fellow frat packers fade into obscurity, Will Ferrell wisely hitches a ride with Kevin Hart. The "SNL" vet plays a rich guy who hires Hart's small businessman to prep him for jail, assuming that's he's an ex-con (he's not). Queasy racial (and token gay panic) humor ensues.

2 'Home'
Through the magic of animation, we finally get the comedic pairing of Rihanna and Jim Parsons humanity knew would happen one day. The two voice a teen and a cute alien, respectively, who team up to save humanity.

3 'Serena'
Filmed between "Silver Linings Playbook" and "American Hustle," this period drama drops Bradley Cooper and Jennifer Lawrence into the Depression-era South for some old-time melodrama, with a couple requisite B. Coop topless shots, natch.

4 'It Follows'
What was once a tiny indie horror is now being treated like a massive mainstream crossover. And good too, because this spookfest — about a teen cursed with a plague in which she's hunted by zombie-like creatures only she can see — is legitimately totally terrifying.

5 'Queen and Country'
John Boorman ("Deliverance") makes a loose follow-up to his 1987 WWII memoir classic "Hope and Glory," following his now young adult stand-in as he files military service and falls for a girl who will break his heart.

6 'Seymour: An Introduction'
Ethan Hawke's latest directorial doodle is an intimate documentary profile of Seymour Bernstein, an 80-something retired pianist who spends most of the film offering his unique view of life as an extension of one's art.

ADMIT ONE

Metro rounds up what's in cinemas this week.

MATT PRIGGE
matt.prigge@metro.us

7 'Merchants of Doubt'
"Food Inc." documentarian Robert Kenner takes on those unbelievably and unapologetically terrible people who knowingly lie to the public about things that harm them, from toxins in cigarettes to climate change.

8 'The Divergent Series: Insurgent'
Shailene Woodley's YA series gets its second of four outings, this time finding her on the run from evil Kate Winslet, hanging out in communes with Octavia Spencer and Naomi Watts and making googly eyes with her dull romantic partner (Theo James, who's boring).

9 'The Gunman'
If Liam Neeson can rebrand himself as an action god, why not Sean Penn? The only catch is Penn is a far more serious celebrity who can't do a shoot-'em-up without a subplot about humanitarian aid work. But unlike Neeson, he does have abs of steel.

FOR ADULTS WITH TYPE 2 DIABETES
Januvia® works when my blood sugar is HIGH...
...and works less when my blood sugar is LOW.
Actor portrayal.

JANUVIA works by enhancing your body's own ability to lower blood sugar.

- JANUVIA is a prescription pill you take once a day.
- JANUVIA, along with diet and exercise, helps lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause blood sugar going too low (hypoglycemia), because it works less when blood sugar is low.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause weight gain.

JANUVIA (jah-NEW-vee-ah) should not be used in patients with type 1 diabetes or with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in the blood or urine). If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas), it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting it while taking JANUVIA.

Selected Risk Information About JANUVIA

Serious side effects can happen in people who take JANUVIA, including pancreatitis, which may be severe and lead to death. Before you start taking JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you've ever had pancreatitis. Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

Do not take JANUVIA if you are allergic to any of its ingredients, including sitagliptin. Symptoms of serious allergic reactions to JANUVIA, including rash, hives, and swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty breathing or swallowing, can occur. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away.

Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis, have been reported.

If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include headache, drowsiness, weakness, dizziness, confusion, irritability, hunger, fast heart beat, sweating, and feeling jittery.

Your doctor may do blood tests before and during treatment with JANUVIA to see how well your kidneys are working. Based on these results, your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA. The most common side effects of JANUVIA are upper respiratory tract infection, stuffy or runny nose and sore throat, and headache.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Pay as little as $5 per prescription.*

Medication Guide
JANUVIA® (jah-NEW-vee-ah) (sitagliptin) Tablets

Read this Medication Guide carefully before you start taking JANUVIA and each time you get a refill. There may be new information. This information does not take the place of talking with your doctor about your medical condition or your treatment. If you have any questions about JANUVIA, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?

Serious side effects can happen in people taking JANUVIA, including inflammation of the pancreas (pancreatitis) which may be severe and lead to death.

Certain medical problems make you more likely to get pancreatitis.

Before you start taking JANUVIA:

Tell your doctor if you have ever had

- pancreatitis
- stones in your gallbladder (gallstones)
- a history of alcoholism
- high blood triglyceride levels
- kidney problems

Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

What is JANUVIA?

- JANUVIA is a prescription medicine used along with diet and exercise to lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with type 1 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in your blood or urine).
- If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas) in the past, it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting pancreatitis while you take JANUVIA.
- It is not known if JANUVIA is safe and effective when used in children under 18 years of age.

Who should not take JANUVIA?

Do not take JANUVIA if:

- you are allergic to any of the ingredients in JANUVIA. See the end of this Medication Guide for a complete list of ingredients in JANUVIA.

Symptoms of a serious allergic reaction to JANUVIA may include:

- rash
- raised red patches on your skin (hives)
- swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty in breathing or swallowing

What should I tell my doctor before taking JANUVIA?

Before you take JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you:

- have or have had inflammation of your pancreas (pancreatitis).
- have kidney problems.
- have any other medical conditions.
- are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if JANUVIA will harm your unborn baby. If you are pregnant, talk with your doctor about the best way to control your blood sugar while you are pregnant.

  Pregnancy Registry: If you take JANUVIA at any time during your pregnancy, talk with your doctor about how you can join the JANUVIA pregnancy registry. The purpose of this registry is to collect information about the health of you and your baby. You can enroll in this registry by calling 1-800-986-8999.
- are breast-feeding or plan to breast-feed. It is not known if JANUVIA will pass into your breast milk. Talk with your doctor about the best way to feed your baby if you are taking JANUVIA.

Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Know the medicines you take. Keep a list of your medicines and show it to your doctor and pharmacist when you get a new medicine.

How should I take JANUVIA?

- Take JANUVIA 1 time each day exactly as your doctor tells you.
- You can take JANUVIA with or without food.
- Your doctor may do blood tests from time to time to see how well your kidneys are working. Your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA based on the results of your blood tests.
- Your doctor may tell you to take JANUVIA along with other diabetes medicines. Low blood sugar can happen more often when JANUVIA is taken with certain other diabetes medicines. See "What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?".
- If you miss a dose, take it as soon as you remember. If you do not remember until it is time for your next dose, skip the missed dose and go back to your regular schedule. Do not take two doses of JANUVIA at the same time.
- If you take too much JANUVIA, call your doctor or local Poison Control Center right away.
- When your body is under some types of stress, such as fever, trauma (such as a car accident), infection or surgery, the amount of diabetes medicine that you need may change. Tell your doctor right away if you have any of these conditions and follow your doctor's instructions.
- Check your blood sugar as your doctor tells you to.
- Stay on your prescribed diet and exercise program while taking JANUVIA.
- Talk to your doctor about how to prevent, recognize and manage low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), high blood sugar (hyperglycemia), and problems you have because of your diabetes.
- Your doctor will check your diabetes with regular blood tests, including your blood sugar levels and your hemoglobin A1C.

What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?

Serious side effects have happened in people taking JANUVIA.

- See "What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?".
- Low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar, such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include:
  - headache
  - drowsiness
  - weakness
  - dizziness
  - confusion
  - irritability
  - hunger
  - fast heart beat
  - sweating
  - feeling jittery
- Serious allergic reactions. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away. See "Who should not take JANUVIA?". Your doctor may give you a medicine for your allergic reaction and prescribe a different medicine for your diabetes.
- Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis

The most common side effects of JANUVIA include:

- upper respiratory infection
- stuffy or runny nose and sore throat
- headache

JANUVIA may have other side effects, including:

- stomach upset and diarrhea
- swelling of the hands or legs, when JANUVIA is used with rosiglitazone (Avandia®). Rosiglitazone is another type of diabetes medicine.

These are not all the possible side effects of JANUVIA. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Tell your doctor if you have any side effect that bothers you, is unusual or does not go away.

Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088.

How should I store JANUVIA?

Store JANUVIA at 68°F to 77°F (20°C to 25°C).

Keep JANUVIA and all medicines out of the reach of children.

General information about the use of JANUVIA

Medicines are sometimes prescribed for purposes that are not listed in Medication Guides. Do not use JANUVIA for a condition for which it was not prescribed. Do not give JANUVIA to other people, even if they have the same symptoms you have. It may harm them.

This Medication Guide summarizes the most important information about JANUVIA. If you would like to know more information, talk with your doctor. You can ask your doctor or pharmacist for additional information about JANUVIA that is written for health professionals. For more information, go to www.JANUVIA.com or call 1-800-622-4477.

What are the ingredients in JANUVIA?

Active ingredient: sitagliptin

Inactive ingredients: microcrystalline cellulose, anhydrous dibasic calcium phosphate, croscarmellose sodium, magnesium stearate, and sodium stearyl fumarate. The tablet film coating contains the following inactive ingredients: polyvinyl alcohol, polyethylene glycol, talc, titanium dioxide, red iron oxide, and yellow iron oxide.

What is type 2 diabetes?

Type 2 diabetes is a condition in which your body does not make enough insulin, and the insulin that your body produces does not work as well as it should. Your body can also make too much sugar. When this happens, sugar (glucose) builds up in the blood. This can lead to serious medical problems.

High blood sugar can be lowered by diet and exercise, and by certain medicines when necessary.

WATCH A BREAK-UP MOVIE THE WAY IT WAS INTENDED

Indie

'The Disappearance of Eleanor Rigby: Her and Him'

Netflix Instant

It was probably a tall order for paying audiences to sit through a three-hour, two-film break-up saga, even one with Jessica Chastain and James McAvoy. But the theatrical release of Ned Benson's epic drama was still badly mishandled, taking what was a bold, often devastating gimmick — one film tells the story from her perspective, the other from his — and mashing them together into the single two-hour "Them." All that did, though, was turn it into a standard (albeit beautifully acted) indie, and since the inferior version was released first, it hardly pumped up viewers to spend more time with them when the two-fer later hit theaters. But now you can bypass "Them" altogether and see how "Her" and "Him" force you to feel the anguish of eliminating a person from your life, and fumbling while creating a new you.

The best way to watch James McAvoy and Jessica Chastain split up in "The Disappearance of Eleanor Rigby" is to watch the version that splits it into two movies. / THE WEINSTEIN COMPANY

Sci-fi/Animated

Robin Wright goes toon in "The Congress." / DRAFTHOUSE FILMS

'The Congress'

Amazon Prime

Few seem to have noticed that Robin Wright gave what may be her best ever performance in a movie that's half-animated. In the latest from Ari Folman ("Waltz with Bashir") she plays "Robin Wright," an actress in a future in which entertainment has gone so digital that actors are "scanning" themselves and having their on-screen likenesses live in eternal youth. The first half is live-action, but the second jumps decades into the future when most people have retreated to virtual cartoon worlds — you know, the probable, actual future.

A HAPPY FAMILY DISCOVERS THEIR DAD IS A WIMP IN "FORCE MAJEURE." MAGNOLIA PICTURES

For one of the reportedly happiest countries on Earth, Sweden has always been a whiz with downer cinema. In this often hilarious drama, a father outs himself as a selfish coward on a skiing holiday when what looks like an avalanche prompts him to run for his life, leaving wife and kids behind.

Alas, it wasn't an avalanche, and the rest of the film observes as his macho patriarchy is deflated inch by inch.

WHERE TO EAT, DRINK & PLAY

Hidden in plain slice

We found five pizzas you need in your life. JOHN PLICHTER

Pizzeria DiMeo's

8500 Henry Ave., Roxborough
Few are as passionate about creating an authentic Neapolitan pie as the crew at Pizzeria DiMeo's. Reaching more than 950 degrees, the oak-fired oven cooks your pizza in roughly 90 seconds. And this is even more impressive: all the ingredients used at DiMeo's are imported directly from Campania, Italy, every week. This is where you get an authentic taste of Naples.

Garces Trading Company

1111 Locust St., Washington Square West
Everyone knows "Iron Chef" Jose Garces and his restaurant empire, but here's an under-the-radar pizza tip: Garces Trading Company serves authentic Chicago-style deep-dish pizza on weekends. It has a thick base of Gruyere and mozzarella, topped with San Marzano tomato confit.

Gennaro's Tomato Pie

1429 Jackson St., South Philly
If you've done your pizza homework, you know that Lombardi's in New York was the first pizzeria in the U.S. Less known is Gennaro's, owned by the same crew. The ovens at Gennaro's recreate a coal-oven flavor, giving you a nostalgic taste of pizza history. Bonuses: The 1940s decor and desserts.

Pizzeria Beddia

115 E. Girard Ave., Fishtown
Securing a pie from Pizzeria Beddia is a privilege, considering it's only open for 20 hours a week. Beddia doesn't serve slices, it only accepts cash, and it doesn't even have a phone number. Sometimes it runs out of dough, and its menu only consists of three pies, with a few topping options. But in this chaotic world, what's better than a classic, rustic pizza pie?

Nomad Pizza

611 S. Seventh St., Bella Vista
Many pizzerias overlook the importance of the fermentation process, but Nomad knows it's all about that crust. Allowing the dough a week to ferment is the first step in giving Nomad's pizza its distinctive taste. The 800-degree wood-fire oven does the rest, charring the crust on the outside while leaving it soft inside. The toppings are local and organic.

Battle of the beards

Find out who has the best facial hair at the Beard and Mustache Championship.

CHRIS JORDAN
@MetroPhilly

Philadelphia Beard and Mustache Club members P.J. Bielavitz and Brad Kingett of Sewell show off their beards at Tattooed Mom on South Street. CHRIS JORDAN

It takes a certain kind of man to wear a beard.

Just ask Nick Bua of the Philadelphia Beard and Mustache Club, which hosts the fourth annual East Coast Beard and Mustache Championship, Saturday at TLA on South Street.

"You have to have an open personality when you're doing something as bold as having a big beard," says Bua, who sports an impressive Alaskan whaler beard: Think Gregory Peck in "Moby Dick."

"People will shout from a car driving by, 'Hey, nice beard!' It feels good. Whoever says it doesn't, is lying," he continues. "You can shave and fit in and not deal with anybody and nobody deals with you. But when you have a beard, people feel like they can talk to you. You don't take yourself too serious."

Yet, these guys do take their beards seriously.

"My beard has started more conversations with random people walking down the street," says member Brad Kingett, 27, of Sewell, New Jersey, who has a long, red beard. "My girlfriend has gotten mad. We go to a restaurant and I'm wearing a T-shirt and jeans and she's dressed up, looking nice and people at the restaurant will stop and say, 'Oh my God, I really love your beard!'"

On Saturday, Beefcake the Mighty from GWAR, Ray Mazzola of Full Blown Chaos and Jeff Langum, the Philly beard club president and winner of full beard title at the world championships in Germany, will be among those judging in more than a dozen categories.

There's even two female categories for most realistic and most creative. By the way, the guys would welcome any gals with real beards into the club, which numbers about 30 now.

"We'd love to have a bearded women as a judge, a contestant or as a member of the club," says Bua, 30 of Newark, Del. "We haven't been lucky enough to find one yet, but they do exist."

Unsurprisingly, the event is sponsored by Pabst Blue Ribbon. Proceeds benefit PAWS.

Test your kitchen skills at pop-up EAT

When Chef Nick Farina moved his Union Taco from Seventh and Girard in Northern Liberties to Manayunk last year, he was left with an empty 25-seat restaurant — a perfect space to host what he calls "homeless chefs." EAT, a space for chef pop-ups, is now open.

Professional chefs are using EAT to test menus, generate buzz and impress potential restaurant investors; home cooks are booking the space to practice their skills.

"I see EAT as a stage we make available to chefs to showcase their talents," says Farina. "Anyone who works in any kitchen has different menus in their heads, but until now, couldn't see those ideas in practice unless they were lucky enough to have that large space to call their own."

Visiting chefs are responsible for advertising their events, with reservations made through EAT's website (www.eatrestaurantphilly.com). They keep half the profits from an event and EAT gets the other half.

How it works

"Chefs bring their cooking supplies, while the restaurant provides space and the majority of the pots, pans and utensils," explains Noelle DeHarpporte of NoelleEve, a new organic catering and private chef service"she owns with Greg Stein.

The NoelleEve dinner included citrus-braised pork on squash noodles.

Nick Farina ALL PHOTOS BY REESE AMOROSI

NoelleEve was one of EAT's first users. Chef Stephen Latona of Smoke Kitchen also hosted a dinner there this month, as did Trevor Ford, sous chef at Verdad in Bryn Mawr, who roasted a 100-pound pig for his guests. (Farina is chef at Verdad.)

"The experience was great," says DeHarpporte of NoelleEve's meal, which included Brussels sprouts with shaved fennel and apple, seared scallops, and citrus-braised pork shank. "The open kitchen was a sensational surprise."

An intimate space

EAT opens its doors six times a month to guest chefs. Farina says he'll use the space regularly as a test kitchen and for his own experimental dinners. "I like cooking there because its intimacy enables me to touch every plate and get immediate feedback from guests," he says.

THEATER

'The R&J Project: Romeo and Juliet Re-Imagined'

Friday through Sunday
Brian Sanders' Junk
2040 Christian St.
$10-$15
The new local theater company Madness Most Discreet presents this experimental production of "Romeo and Juliet." Shakespeare can have a stuffy, stiff reputation, which is ironic since in his own time, theater was much more spontaneous and improvised. That's the tack Madness takes, making each show a unique experience — the audience even gets to choose who plays which characters!

'The Matchmaker'

Through April 4
Tomlinson Theater, Temple University
1301 W. Norris St.
$10-$25, 215-204-1122
www.temple.edu/theater
Temple presents Thornton Wilder's play, which found the playwright, most famous for the melancholic "Our Town," in farce mode. The matchmaker of the title is Dolly Levi, a widow who brokers marriages. When a shopkeeper hires her to find him a wife, the zealous Dolly gets far more involved than he imagined.

The African Children's Choir

Friday
Zellerbach Theatre at the Annenberg Center
3680 Walnut St.
$20 to $60
215-898-3900, www.annenbergcenter.org
The African Children's Choir is visiting Philly for a one-night performance of traditional spirituals, children's songs and contemporary tunes. The choir is made up of kids who have survived war, famine and disease, and many of them are orphans. But this isn't just a charity concert you can feel good about supporting — versions of the choir have been travelling around the world impressing audiences for 20 years.

Regina Carter

Saturday, 8 p.m.
Annenberg Center
3680 Walnut St.
$20-$60, 215-898-3900
www.annenbergcenter.org
On her most recent project, "Southern Comfort," violin virtuosa Regina Carter explores a variety of Southern musical strains, attempting to connect with her family history. From blues to funk to ballads that sound like they came off Ken Burns' "Civil War" soundtrack, she proves a deft and evocative interpreter, assimilating myriad voices.

Daniel Wohl featuring Transit

Friday, 8 p.m.
FringeArts
140 N. Columbus Blvd.
$15, 215-413-1318
www.fringearts.org
This multimedia show integrates experimental film, classical, rock and electronic music, as well as video. Each person involved made their contribution knowing only a bit of the previous part, leading to plenty of accidental invention. It's a working method composer Daniel Wohl borrowed from the surrealists of 1920s Paris.

Friday through April 24
University City Arts League
4226 Spruce St.
Free, 215-382-7811
www.ucartsleague.org
Sara Bakken creates pseudo-organic forms with glass and silk organza, many of which look like sea creatures frozen by some weird magic spell or natural phenomenon, calling to mind the otherworldly diversity of that parallel Earth that exists beneath the ocean's surface. They give the enchanting impression that they were collected from some far-off beach.

'It Follows'

Friday through April 2
PFS Theater at the Roxy, 2030 Sansom St.; $9-$10, 267-639-9508; www.filmadelphia.org
This new thriller deconstructs the tropes of '80s teen horror flicks, making explicit what those movies tended to shrug off with campy dialogue and over-the-top deaths. The monster here isn't some snarky slasher like Freddy Krueger: It's an invisible, creeping presence, able to take whatever form most terrifies its victim, and it's contracted like a disease from — what else? — sexual contact.

Azalea Festival

NORTH CAROLINA AZALEA FESTIVAL AT WILMINGTON, INC.

Spring is blooming in Wilmington, NC

Snow piles may still blight the landscape in the Northeast, but spring is blooming in the Carolinas. No place celebrates it more than Wilmington, North Carolina.

The city is a gem, hugging the Cape Fear River with the Atlantic Ocean a few miles away. A classic wooden plank boardwalk runs nearly two miles along the scenic river. It's lined with 200 independent stores, restaurants and hotels with river views. The historic district is one of the largest in the country: 230 blocks of historic homes and churches. You can tour via horse-drawn carriage, Segway, trolley or on foot. Considered one of the most haunted cities in the country, Wilmington (www.hauntedwilmington.com) has nighttime ghosts tours and a tour of haunted pubs.

If the city looks familiar, it may be because it's a popular choice for TV and movie production. There are self-guided tours of locations from "Sleepy Hollow," "One Tree Hill" and "Dawson's Creek" and weekend tours of the EUE/Screen Gems studio (www.wilmingtonandbeaches.com/hollywood-east).

Across the river, the battleship USS North Carolina (www.battleshipnc.com) welcomes visitors. Now peacefully moored, the ship saw fighting in the Pacific during World War II. Exhibits allow visitors to "operate" the ship's systems and simulate life onboard a ship on active duty.

Wilmington's Front Street Brewery was a pioneer in the revival of American craft brewing. Celebrating its 20th anniversary, it is now joined by eight more breweries.

The spring highlight is the North Carolina Azalea Festival (April 8 to 12). Now in its 68th year, it welcomes the new season with bright blooms and festivities.

The city-wide festival starts off with a parade of azalea-bedecked floats, marching bands, mounted units and street entertainers. Headliners for the evening concerts include Alan Jackson and Nelly. But flowers are the reason for the party. Over a dozen public and private gardens open for the hugely popular Cape Fear Garden Club Azalea Garden Tour. Interior design and historic architecture of houses and churches are the theme for the home tour. Details and schedule for the festival are at www.ncazaleafestival.org.

Tuscan coast

L'Argentario

DREAMSTIME

Away from the glorious art and architecture of its towns and cities, there's another Tuscany to discover: Over 400 miles of beautiful coastline.

Tuscany is famous for being one of the world's most beautiful regions: A land of rolling green hills and picturesque towns and cities. It's less well known for its coastal areas. But here you'll find the food and wine equally memorable, the crowds smaller, the climate cooled by sea breezes and deserted beaches. Cities like Florence and Lucca are just a short drive or bus ride away.

Starting with the sand, many of Tuscany's beaches are Blue Flag standard, and there are even more on the Tuscan islands, including Elba, Italy's third-largest island after Sicily and Sardinia. You can reach Elba, famous for being the island of Napoleon's exile, from the historic little port of Piombino on the Tuscan coast.

South of Piombino is the town of Capalbio, an attractive option for a Tuscan coast stay. Set slightly inland, it is scenically situated, surrounded by those Tuscan hills where vineyards flourish. It's popular with Rome's intellectual elite and has plenty of trattorias serving gourmet food. It's also only a 20-minute drive from the coast and the promontory of L'Argentario.

L'Argentario is another good base for enjoying the best of both worlds in Tuscany. This upmarket outcrop with its densely wooded hills has a golf course, a yacht harbor and colorful fishing ports. Its eating options range from simple trattoria serving freshly caught fish to Michelin starred restaurants.

Talamone is based around another outcrop jutting into the sea, a fishing village that was fortified like several others along this coast. It sits at the southern end of the Monti dell'Uccellina, a nature reserve that has both thick woodland where wild boar live and three miles of white sand beach. Being protected, the beach is undeveloped and peaceful. It's one of Italy's finest, equidistant from both Florence and Rome, and seemingly a million miles from either.

Letters to the editor

Ted Cruz should stick with his principles and choose COBRA, not Obamacare

Re: 'Ted Cruz to sign up for Obamacare' (Metro, March 25) The report of Republican Sen. Ted Cruz signing up for Obamacare exposes one of the cruelest ironies of health insurance before the passage of the Affordable Care Act: the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, or (COBRA).

COBRA was created to allow laid-off workers to continue their health insurance after group coverage termination by paying for it out of their own pockets, but the reality was that very few, especially the recently unemployed, could afford COBRA.

It seems that even Sen. Cruz has chosen the less painful option of signing up for Obamacare when, if he were true to his convictions (and those of the Tea Party), he should take COBRA, and not burden the taxpayers with his health insurance costs.

I am certain that he can afford it. I am very happy that we have the Affordable Care Act, and it appears that Senator Cruz and his family are too.

Schmidt to double Phils duty

Comcast SportsNet announced Wednesday that "Sundays with Schmidt" will become "Weekends with Schmidt" this season. Former Phillies Hall of Fame third baseman Mike Schmidt will be in the broadcast booth for every home weekend game, 26 games this year after 13 games last year.

Kelly gives 'State of the Eagles' press conference

NFL. Chip Kelly believes in Sam Bradford but tried to keep Nick Foles.

Josh Huff could have a big offensive role in 2015. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER

Eagles fans (and Philly sports reporters) got a "State of the Eagles," press conference from Chip Kelly on Wednesday morning, questioning the head coach and head of personnel on a wide range of topics, spanning from their situation at running back to the potency of Sam Bradford at quarterback and even (not surprisingly) his interest in Marcus Mariota.

And while there were a bevy of pieces of information that Kelly was unwilling to reveal, more of his vision for the 2015 squad took shape during the hour he held court at the NFL owners' meetings.

With Bradford's acquisition still a bit of a mystery for proponents of the departed Nick Foles, Kelly explained that the interest in Bradford was mutual between the Eagles and Rams. The price for getting the former No. 1 overall pick was the point of contention.

"We were trying to keep Nick," Kelly said, "we were trying to get it done with draft picks."

With Bradford in Philly actively rehabbing, another new Eagle is progressing as well: linebacker Kiko Alonso.

"He's running and moving around a lot," Kelly said. "He should be ready to go. His surgery was done earlier than Sam, so sometime during OTAs we'll see him moving around."

Last year's rehab success story, Jeremy Maclin left the Eagles for the Chiefs, leaving a large hole in the Birds' receiving corps. Kelly expects Jordan Matthews to expand his role beyond being just a slot receiver. He also thinks Josh Huff can be the next spark plug on the deep ball.

"The biggest thing is consistency," the coach said. "Getting hurt in the preseason game put him behind everyone. It was a freak thing on the kickoff return [when he was injured] but he is an unbelievable special teams player. He will get an opportunity now with Maclin gone. You just hope that Year 1 to Year 2 jump happens."

Quoted

"Philosophically, I want to keep all our draft picks. I want to build through the draft." Chip Kelly

Kelly green

Chip Kelly touched on a variety of other interesting topics Wednesday:

- On trading RB LeSean McCoy: "I'm very fond of LeSean McCoy, I think we all are. But it was just a really big number and [McCoy's agents] weren't moving off the number. That's where the decision was made. We're talking about the all-time leading rusher for the Eagles and the league-leading rusher two years ago, but it was a high number."
- On CB Byron Maxwell: "Because of how good Richard Sherman was, he got the most balls, because you are not going to throw on Richard. He has a great skill set, great size, great length, a very smart intuitive football player. ... He also benefited playing opposite of Richard."
- On secondary issues: "The last few years there hasn't been a great history of drafting defensive backs for the Eagles, so you have to turn to free agency."
- On offensive guard: "We feel very confident in Allen Barbre."
- On OG Evan Mathis: "Everybody on our roster is available if someone wants to talk. If someone says they want to give us two first-round draft picks for someone we'll listen."

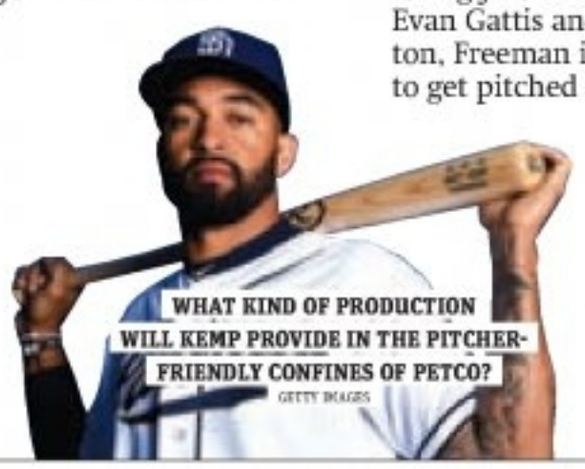
STAY SAFE, AVOID THESE GUYS LIKE THE PLAGUE

It's really hard to win your fantasy baseball league in the first few rounds. But you can certainly lose it.

Given the nature of the game, the players selected early should have a very narrow range of statistical outcomes when we take into account the scope of a 162-game season. There's just no reason to gamble right out of the gate when we can pen in statistics for guys like McCutchen, Bautista, Felix, Posey, Price, etc. So as draft season vaults into full swing, we don't want to get our mind set on positions or players to take in Rounds 1 through 3. We do want to go into drafts with a simple philosophy of safety up front, upside in the middle, risks in the back. Some guys to shy away from early on:

Climbing Altuve?

Astros second baseman Jose Altuve finished as fantasy's No. 1 overall player last season, leading all of baseball in batting average (.341) and tying for second in steals (56). Here comes the regression. Altuve's outrageous 2014 campaign was aided by an unsustainable/career-best .360 BABIP (batting average on balls in play) and 56 steals — 21 more than his previous career-high. Paying top dollar for a two-category specialist who can't repeat a perfect season is a recipe for disaster.



Free for a reason

Freddie Freeman's 2014 season was slightly concerning. He hit just 18 homers in 607 at-bats, with six of those jacks coming in April. That lack of pop is a concern, but the Braves lineup is the real nightmare. After losing Jason Heyward, Evan Gattis and Justin Upton, Freeman is a threat to get pitched around by opponents often. Current projections have the likes of Jonny Gomes, Chris Johnson and Alberto Callaspo hitting behind Freeman. Add it up and there's no way we should be fingering Freddie in the first 3-4 rounds.

Freddie Freeman may not be a good early draft pick, but perhaps grab him in a later round. / GETTY IMAGES

Petco graveyard

Petco Park in San Diego is where offenses go to die. Based on adjusted runs, it was the second-most unfriendly park for scoring in 2014. So even though the Padres upgraded their offense significantly this winter, this is not a place to target our fantasy hitters. That's especially true in the case of Matt Kemp, who no longer brings stolen base upside thanks to his litany of injuries.

Pickups of the week

Here are the top NBA adds:

- Ish Smith, PG, 76ers: Earned the starting job over Isaiah Canaan with difference-making penetration ability.
- Dwight Howard, C, Rockets: After two months on the shelf, Howard is finally ready to be eased back in.

Big names in big games

NCAA. The Sweet 16 isn't for the "little guy" this year as it features plenty of star power.

Cinderella has left the ball after dominating the NCAA Tournament opening. Those who remain in the field imposed their will, fought through adversity and seized victory. The names have changed but the schools left standing are comprised of the blue bloods of the hardwood. Fourteen of the 16 schools left have advanced to a Final Four in their history. Collectively, they have made a staggering 107 trips. Only Xavier and Gonzaga are working toward their maiden voyage. The Sweet 16 kicks off Thursday night. A look ahead:

LEIGH KLEIN

Power programs

This Sweet 16 features: the top two candidates for the No. 1 pick in the NBA Draft in Jahlil Okafor and Karl-Anthony Towns. All-time great college basketball guards: Gonzaga's Kevin Pangos, Wichita's Fred Van Vleet and Arizona's T.J. McConnell. And the coaching legends of March: Hall of Fame coaches Mike Krzyzewski, Rick Pitino, John Calipari and Tom Izzo.

Coaching college basketball is much like a horse race. Some coaches struggle to get out of the gate and can never recover. Others can't avoid interference. The good coach rides his colts like an experienced jockey, navigating each turn in each trial of the season to build endurance for this stretch run. It looks like Calipari has the mount on Secretariat. After winning a slugfest against Cincinnati, Kentucky faces another aggressive team in West Virginia. Mountaineer coach Bob Huggins is 8-2 lifetime over Calipari, including a victory in the Elite Eight in 2010.

KARL-ANTHONY TOWNS AND KENTUCKY WILL MEET WEST VIRGINIA. GETTY IMAGES

T.J. MCCONNELL GETTY IMAGES

Get to know: T.J. McConnell

The best player in the NCAA tournament that no one is talking about is T.J. McConnell from Arizona. The guy impacts the game in so many different ways. His on-ball defense is tremendous, his leadership is phenomenal and he's become a true facilitator. And his squad might be the only one that can beat mighty Kentucky.

Can anyone beat Kentucky?

Kentucky could see Wichita State in the Elite 8. Kentucky eliminated them last year with Aaron Harrison's game-ending dagger. The Shockers don't have the frontcourt depth to match the 'Cats, but with Kentucky battling fatigue after a 40-minute track race with WVU, a game Wichita State team with a score to settle is a real threat to UK's perfect season.

Keep an eye on: NC State

North Carolina State faces a Louisville team that it has beaten earlier this season. Offensively, NC State has developed a balanced attack with perimeter scorers and frontcourt contributors. The Wolfpack backcourt is playing at a high level. Anthony "Cat" Barber gave Louisville all types of problems in their last meeting and now Barber is at a higher level.

Viewing guide for Thursday's hoops action

After arguably the greatest opening day in NCAA men's basketball tournament history on Thursday, things settled down dramatically last weekend and upsets were few and far between, save for the usual Villanova choke job. In fact, of the 16 teams left, the only double-digit seed remaining is No. 11 UCLA in the South regional—which in case you forgot, happens to be one of the most decorated programs in college basketball. The only storyline that anyone is really paying any attention to: Kentucky (36-0) is four wins away from the first perfect season since Indiana in 1976. The only region that isn't dominated by top seeds is the East where No. 1 (Villanova) and No. 2 (Virginia) were both dismissed in the round of 32 leaving a wide open path for Rick Pitino's Louisville or Tom Izzo's Michigan State to reach yet another Final Four.

The Tar Heals are six-point underdogs against the top-seeded Badgers on Thursday night in the Sweet 16. / GETTY IMAGES

7:15 No. 3 Notre Dame vs No. 7 Wichita State (-2), CBS
The action returns on Thursday night with what I expect to be the most entertaining and competitive contest of the next two days. The Fighting Irish (31-5) are the underdog since they squeaked by Northeastern in the first round by four points, then outlasted Butler by three points in overtime in maybe the best game thus far. As expected, the Shockers (30-4) were criminally underseeded by the committee as proven by their easy 78-65 win over Kansas on Sunday.

7:47 No. 1 Wisconsin (-6) vs. No. 4 North Carolina, TBS
The Badgers (33-3) have not played anywhere close to their potential, beating Oregon, 72-65, on Sunday, which has to scare the Tar Heels (26-11). North Carolina barely survived against Harvard, 67-65, in its opener before holding off Arkansas, 87-78, who tried to beat them at their own up-tempo game. The world needs to see a rematch of Kentucky and Wisconsin in the Final Four.

9:45 No. 1 Kentucky (-13.5) vs. No. 5 West Virginia, CBS
Nobody believes in the Mountaineers (25-9) against the Wildcats but for what it's worth, West Virginia head coach Bob Huggins is 8-2 all-time vs. his old pal John Calipari. Even if they can't pull off the massive upset, West Virginia should make Kentucky work with their in-your-face full-court defense. The last time that Huggins made the Final Four in 2010, his Mountaineers knocked off the juggernaut Wildcats (who had John Wall, DeMarcus Cousins and Eric Bledsoe among others at the time).

10:17 No. 2 Arizona (-10.5) vs. No. 6 Xavier, TBS
By unexpectedly reaching their fifth Sweet 16 in the past eight years, it's already been a great ride for the Musketeers (23-13)-the last team left from the Big East. It should be a quick reality check though as they face the Wildcats (33-3) in front of what should be an all-Arizona/Pac-12 crowd. Arizona head coach Sean Miller was an assistant and then the head coach at Xavier from 2001-09, his last job before his current gig.

Do you have symptoms that may be caused by the flu?

If the answer is yes, would you be interested in taking part in a clinical research study?

The purpose of Study VX14-787-103 is to assess the effectiveness and safety of an investigational medication in patients with the flu. The study is divided into two parts, A and B. Your study doctor will let you know whether you will be participating in Part A or Part B of the study.

You may be able to take part in Study VX14-787-103 if you:

- are between 18 and 64 years of age
- have symptoms of the flu (fever, cough, blocked nose, body aches, or fatigue)
- have flu that is confirmed by the study doctor
- do not have any other serious medical conditions
- have had these symptoms for less than 2 days (Part B only).

The study will last for up to 14 days and will include up to six visits to the study center. Study-related medical examinations and medical care will be provided free of charge.

If you or someone you know has the flu this winter and is interested in learning more about Study VX14-787-103, please discuss with the study center staff as soon as possible.
